1. On 27, 28, 31 August and 3 September 1951, Soviet artillery fired southward from the Neulutterow area of the Schweinrich (H 54/U 22) troop training grounds. A maximum number of 20 reports by artillery pieces was heard at a time. Eight T-34 tanks were seen moving southward along the edge of the woods east of Bootzen on 3 September. The tank stopped at the entrance of a lane and fired six rounds of shells, while the other tanks moved past the lane. The tank fell in behind the other tanks after firing the shells.

2. [REDACTED] ment was supplied to the troops at the same rate as previously. Soviet soldiers [REDACTED] would return to their home stations at the beginning of October. [REDACTED]
